

Haughley Parish Council

Notice Boards

Haughley Parish Council and its Committees, have a legal obligation for statutory notices to be published and other notices to be displayed.

New Notice Boards were commissioned to be used primarily for Haughley Parish Council notices, to ensure space for their notices, and to better be able to withstand the weather, they were made with glass doors and to be lockable.

It had become increasingly difficult to post such notices on the old notice boards for several reasons.

- There often was insufficient space to display Council notices due to
 - Public notices taking up the display surface
 - Old notices not being removed after the date of the event
 - Advertising notices on permanent display
 - Notices being torn off leaving drawing pins and staples to rust and restrict pinning of new notices
 - Staples being used rather than drawing pins making removal difficult
- The old notice boards had become partially unusable due to water damage

Although Parish Council Notice Boards are primarily for Council business they can, with application to the Clerk, be used to display public notices. Public notices must be community notices such as announcing parish events in Haughley/Haughley Green/Haughley New Street. No commercial advertising is permitted.

The Council's noticeboard policy can be viewed on the Haughley website: -
